Goes To Philadelphia.

Elliot Moorman arrived at his home at Glendean Saturday from Annapolis where he graduated. He has accepted a position with a big steel plant in Philadelphia where he will go in about two weeks. Elliot is a fine young man and we are sure he will make good in his new position. He spent ten days at Col. Ben Johnson's home at Bardtown, where he was royally entertained.

Glen Moorman, of Glendean, was in Louisville last week with a load of hogs. He struck an advancing market.

SUCCESSFUL SESSION

Woman's Home Mission Society Closes At Hardinsburg. Mrs. Morris H. Beard Made Honorary Life Member

DELEGATES TREATED ROYALLY

Hardinsburg, June 20--(Special)--What is said to have been the most successful session of the Louisville Conference Woman's Home Mission Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, came to a close on Tuesday last. Beautiful weather and large audiences marked all the sessions, and the topics discussed and addresses made were received with enthusiasm by a multitude of interested hearers. The sermon on Sunday morning by the Rev. Geo. S. Sexton was listened to with careful attention and thoroughly enjoyed by all. Prof. H. A. Smith of the Louisville High School made a forceful speech on Monday night on the subject of Immigration, and Mrs. Jas. Leach of Louisville, President of the State Federation of Women's Clubs, spoke beautifully on The Debt Which Strength Owe to Weakness. The ladies of the Hardinsburg Auxiliary served refreshments at the close on Monday afternoon and on Tuesday evening the delegates and visitors were shown the various points of interest in and around the city, through the medium of a drive, which was made possible by the kindness of individuals and the two lively stables. Many of the visiting delegates made their hostesses members or associates of the Louisville Wesley Home and Mrs. George Gaubert made her hostesses; Mrs. Morris H. Beard an Honorary Life Member of the Society paying the sum of $100, for the privilege of so doing. Wednesday morning witnessed the departure of the guests all of whom were loud in their praise of the hospitality which they had received while in our midst.

The Oldest Church Member.

June the ninth Barney Bohler was eighty years of age. He says he has the honor of being the oldest citizen of Cloverport and the oldest member of the Presbyterian church. He took dinner with his son, Chas. Bohler. What seemed to delight Mr. Bohler most was his being presented with a cake by Mrs. A. R. Fisher.

Lee Miller, of Webster, says he has four acres of the finest stand of Burley tobacco he ever saw. The leaves tip 14 inches.

"PER CENT CLAUSE WOULD BIND GROWER HAND AND FOOT"

In Communication, Executive Committee of Burley Tobacco Society, Shows How Such a Provision Would Work Destruction of The Movement--Opinion of Lawyers Given in Letter.

In a communication to members, the Executive members of the Burley Tobacco Society explains why no per cent clause was inserted in the contract for the 1910 pool, and why such a clause could not be embodied. Accompanying this communication is a letter from Col. John R. Allen, written March 5, in which is stated the opinion of Attorneys for the Society. The letters follow:

Dear Sir:--Some persons who desire the ruin and destruction of the Burley Tobacco Society and who would in accomplishing their purpose deliver the Tobacco growers bound hand and foot into the power of the Tobacco Trust, are through newspapers and on the stump demanding that a 75 per cent clause be inserted in the pledge.

Since there may be honest men who honestly believe that such a clause should be in the pledge, we take this means of telling you why those who have your interests at heart and whom you have chosen to protect your property did not and could not insert in the 1910 pledge a 75 per cent clause.

The first pledge contained a per cent clause, and we learned by experience that there is danger in such a clause.

When we took legal steps against men who broke their pledges some lawyers who could make the worse cause appear the better would take the ground that we did not have the required per cent. In a community where officers of the law and public sentiment were in the favor of pooling, the verdict would be for the Society. In communities where the officers of the law and public sentiment were against pooling, the verdict would be for the man who broke his pledge. In this way the loss of the pooled tobacco worked hardship to the honest members. Seeing the difficulty that it made, our lawyers advised us not to put a per cent clause in subsequent contracts.

We include in this circular a letter from Col. Jno. R. Allen giving his opinion on this subject.

The General Assembly has passed all the laws necessary to protect our Society if we use common sense and the light of experience. But to put a per cent clause in the 1910 pledge would open a gap through which contract breakers could escape.

A per cent clause would only make a mark for the Trust to shoot at. If we inserted a 75 per cent clause the Trust would have only to buy up 26 per cent and thus make any pool impossible. Having bought the smallest fraction over one-fourth of the crop at good prices the Trust would be able to control the remainder of the crop for anything it was pleased to pay.

The way to get 75 per cent pledged is to go after it and not to waste time and energy in a wrangle about a technicality that would seriously weaken the pool. The only reason that we have not 75 or 85 per cent in the 1909 pool is that selfish or short-sighted men claiming to be the growers' friends made war on us during the last pooling season and confused and misled the people. Don't be misled this time.

Extending the time of declaring the pool to November 1st gives two boards the opportunity to pass on it. The old board has the right to declare the pool off prior to October 1st, if in their judgment they deem it best. The new board, elected about October 1st and representing the will of those who have just elected them, will have the right to declare the pool off on or before November 1st.

Recently we mailed you a four-page sheet containing a full discussion of the matters of difference between the Society and those who seek our ruin. We earnestly hope that you will take time to read all that is in those four pages and also the contents of a second sheet which we will send you in a few days. It is the farmers' fault to work too much and to read and think too little. It is just as necessary to maintain an organization to sell your tobacco at a good price as it is to grow it.

Sincerely yours,

Executive Committee Burley Tobacco Society

PROCEEDINGS

Of A Term Of Breckenridge County Fiscal Court Held At The Court House Saturday, June 4, 1910.

At a called Term of the Breckenridge Fiscal Court called and held in and for Breckenridge county at the Court house in Hardinsburg, Ky., on Saturday, June 4, 1910, for the purpose of authorizing construction of bridge over Bull Creek and any other business that may come before the court. Present Hon. L. L. Waggoner, Judge Breckenridge County Court with the following named Justices: G. A. Wright, Jno. N. Akers, B. A. Whittinghill, Sam Slaughter, Sam H. Dix, G. N. Harris.

Motion made by G. N. Harris to make an appropriation to build a bridge across Bull Creek, seconded by Justices Jno. N. Akers. Motion voted on and unanimously carried.

It appearing to the satisfaction of the Court that it is necessary to have a new bridge built across Bull Creek: it was moved by Justice G. N. Harris, seconded by Justice J. N. Akers that said bridge be built and said motion having been unanimously carried. It is ordered by the court that said bridge be built upon the site of the old bridge. It is further ordered by the court that county Judge Waggoner and bridge Commissioner, Mike Miller, be authorized and they are hereby authorized to let a contract for the erection of said bridge and they will use their discretion as to the character of the bridge to be built and they will report their action back to the court for its approval and ratification.

Claim of T. C. Lewis allowed, $ 6 35

Claim of the Bradley and Gilbert Company allowed, 80 00

Claim of Wm. Hall allowed, 117 00

It appearing to the Court that a contract heretofore entered into by the county with Claude Mercer for the indexing of the deeds in the County Clerk's office, was unnecessary and a needless expense upon the taxpayers of the county, it is now the order of this court that said contract be and the same is hereby set aside rescinded and held off naught and the County Clerk is ordered to refuse said Mercer the use of the deed books in the said office for said purpose.

Per Diem of all of magistrates allowed $3.00 each.

At the last October term of the Fiscal Court an order was entered providing for the general indexing of all the deeds in the County Clerk's office, except commissioners' deeds, and the order provided that County Judge Moorman should employ a competent man to do the work. The last official act of Judge Moorman, on December 31, was the employment of attorney Claude Mercer to do the work.

The contract entered into with Mr. Mercer provides that the work should be done in the modern approved way, and that he should be paid a reasonable sum for his work.

The Fiscal Court as it is now constituted, has from the start, for several reasons, opposed and objected to the contract. It has never learned exactly what the term "modern approved way" meant or what "a reasonable sum for the work" would be.

After consulting with Mr. Mercer it was learned that the indexing system as used by the official indexing of Jefferson county is "the modern approved way," and that the cost of the job would be any where from three to four

WANTS $5040

From Cumberland Telephone Co. For Mental And Physical Pain.

Hardinsburg, June 20. --(Special)--Lawrence Sills, former operator for the Cumberland Telephone at this place, has, through his attorneys Mercer & Mercer, brought suit against the Company for $5040. He alleges that by negligence and carelessness of the Company the wires and appliances were in such bad repair that a charge of electricity ruined the hearing of his left ear, causing mental and physical pain for which he asks $5000. The $40 is for medical treatment.

Death of Richard Babbage

Richard Babbage, a well known resident of Clarendon and a member of the Orleans County Pioneer Association, passed away on the farm where he had resided nearly 30 years, June 8, aged 88 years.

He was born in Devonshire, England, Jan. 25, 1822. At the age of eight he was left an orphan and forced to earn his living. He managed to save enough to come the United States where he engaged in the fruit business with his brother John, of Rochester, Farming, however, was more to his liking and he moved to Clarendon, where he has since resided.

He was married to Mrs. Phoebe Mitchell, Oct. 12, 1853, whom he survived by ten years. Two children were born of this union, Anna, who died in infancy, and Edwin H. Babbage, who now lives in Lockport, N. Y.--Holley, N. Y. Standard.

thousand dollars. The deeds in the county clerk's office are already indexed, not only in each deed book, but the clerk also keeps a general cross index as well. The county is already considerably in debt because of heavy bridge work and repairs made necessary by high water last year. The county also, this year or next, will under the new school law be compelled to erect a high school. This will be a heavy expense and will add to the taxes of the people. In view of these facts, and the further fact, that the court deemed the proposed indexing of deeds as unnecessary, and a useless expenditure of the people's money, it was deemed best to rescind the contract.

TACKING ON WALL PAPER

Sometimes That Method is Preferable to Paste—How it is Accomplished.

"You never heard of tacking on wall paper? Oh, dear! yes," said Mr. Platteweller, "we often do that. We don't put the paper on with paste originally, but we tack it on in making repairs."

"You know how the paper curls away from the wall sometimes, stiff and hard with the paste on it? Sometimes if it's left that way pieces of the hard paper may be broken off. Well, you couldn't very well paste that paper down again, because you couldn't make any paste strong enough to take out the curl and make the paper hold; and then with paste, even if it would hold, you might not make a nice job of it around the joints, might get on too much paste and so get some of it on the outside of the paper. So we just tack down the curled up paper and tack on the pieces that may have fallen off."

"But don't the tack heads show in the paper? No, not at all, not a—ahem!—as we do the tacking. That's where the fine art of tacking on paper, as we practice it, comes in. There's a pattern on each roll, and sure to be here and there more or less dark places in the coloring and we simply drive the tacks in the dark spots, where they don't show."

Something for Headache.

Nothing else, aside from money, is so universally sought for as a cure for headache. Headache powders are not safe and they give only temporary relief in any event. The chocolate-coated and capsule-shaped pills called Sherman's Headache Remedy and sold by druggists and dealers at 10c. and 25c. are recommended as the best headache cure.

A Judicial Expert.

The native with a stogie met the native with a pipe.

"Howdy, Zeb!" quoth the stogie native. "Hear 'bout 't' fuss down to 't' courthouse?"

"Noppe," drawled the man with the pipe. "What was it about?"

"Why, Jim Simpson has been suing Abner Hawley for alienatin' 't' affections of his wife, an' Judge Mangrove told 't' jury to bring a verdict of six cents' damages, 'cause he thought that was all the damage was worth to his wife. An' Jim's wife got mad an' threw a chair at the judge, an' he had her arrested an' put in the cooler."

"But didn't judge go a little too far when he fixed her value so low?"

"Not at all, not at all. Y' see, he was her first husband!"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Good Cake Making.

There are some general rules for cake-making that must be observed.

First.—The ingredients must be of the best, for the best are the most economical.

Second.—Never allow butter to get too soft or oily before creaming it with the sugar.

Third.—Always have an earthen or enameled dish to mix and work the materials for cake. Tin, if not new, is apt to discolor the materials. Remember that eggs will tarnish even silver. Always use a clean wooden spoon.

Fourth.—As a rule, in mixing cake first beat the sugar and butter together to a cream, then add the yolks of the eggs. If spices are used, these go in with the yolks of the eggs; then comes milk and last the thoroughly beaten whites of the eggs and flavor. If fruit is a portion, this is put in with the flour.

Fifth.—For small cakes the oven should be pretty hot; for larger cakes only moderately so. If a brown straw pushed through the thick part of the cake comes out clean and free from dough, the cake is done; also if the cake has left the sides of the pan and does not make the slightest blushing.

Sixth.—Some cooks take cake immediately from the pans and do not cover; others leave in the pans fifteen minutes and then cover. Experiment and experience must make the decision in each household.

HIGHWAY OF THE FUTURE.

One Constructed of a Material Durable For Heavy Motor Traffic.

All road builders are now engaged in trying to devise a road which will stand motor traffic. Many new methods have been tried with varying degrees of success, but none of them seems to be perfectly satisfactory.

If broken stone is to form the wearing surface, then some means must be found to hold the binding particles so firmly that they cannot be sucked out, and sufficient strength must be given to the mass to enable it to withstand the sliding action of the wheels at bends and turns. Several kinds of tar macadam answer fairly well, but they are expensive.

It would seem that the most promising kind of road for heavy automobile traffic is what is called curbed in England. It is a pavement of three inch irregular cubes of hard stone laid in small segments of circles.

These stones can be cut by machinery and are comparatively inexpensive. They are laid without grout, but there seems to be no reason for its omission except the cost. Great quantities of this kind of pavement have been laid in Germany.

A PHANTOM COACH.

It is a Messenger of Death to an English Family.

Up the drive of a certain manor house situated in one of the southwest counties of England a phantom coach with spectral horses and driver is always heard or seen prior to the death of the head of the family or of some important member of it.

On one occasion of quite recent years a number of gentlemen and two ladies who formed a portion of the house party at Christmas were startled on their return at dusk to hear the sounds of several horses' hoofs coming up the drive. Upon turning, all the party saw an old fashioned coach with a team of four white horses advancing toward them. They drew aside, and as the coach passed them the two ladies screamed and fell almost fainting in the arms of their companions.

All retired to rest about 11 o'clock, some, no doubt, to think over the mysterious appearance of the coach and others to sleep. Early in the morning a telegram, which had been dispatched too late the previous night for delivery, came to hand, conveying the intelligence that the only son of the house had been drowned while wild fowling in the fens.

It was nearly forty years before that the coach had last been seen, although seventeen years previously it had been heard to drive up to the front door and away again down the avenue in the middle of the night. On this occasion the head of the family had died in his sleep the next night.

VALUE OF GOOD ROADS.

Increase Price of Farm Lands Fifty Dollars an Acre.

Mecklenburg county, N. C., began to build macadam roads thirty years ago, using the direct taxation method of raising funds. Today that county has 208 miles of modern highways.

As a result of these good roads farm values have reached a point where $50 an acre is regarded as the minimum price of such lands and $75 and $100 an acre the maximum. A few years ago $20 was regarded as an exceedingly high price for an acre of Mecklenburg land. Now there are few—very few—farms in the county that can be purchased for less than $50, and no great number are for sale at that price.

This is the experience of every county that constructs improved roads in the face of such hard facts, why the people of a mud ridden county hesitate to acquire improved roads is strange. Mecklenburg, as stated, has been building roads for thirty years, levying a road tax.

Now the people are agitating for a bond issue to carry the work on more swiftly and at the same time to have better streets within the city of Charlotte.

Up to Date "Santa Fe Trail."

According to a prominent Kansas City newspaper, a modern highway 275 miles long through the "short grass country" in western Kansas would not only prove an illuminating object lesson for the entire state, but for all the country as well. The people of western Kansas have started a movement to afford the world just that object lesson in road building. From Newton to the Colorado line it is proposed to construct a continuous boulevard along the Arkansas river and call it "The New Santa Fe Trail."

Auto Fees to Mend Roads.

Bergen county, N. J., has received $37,920 from the auto fees paid into the state fund, and a well known construction company of Hackensack, N. J., were awarded four contracts amounting to that sum for work to be done on its main road traveled by New York motorists. The board of freeholders at a recent meeting voted to establish a road system that will cost about $200,000 and insure excellent roads in the district close to New York.

Rural Delivery and Good Roads.

The intimate relation which exists between good country roads and rural free delivery of mail cannot be too strongly emphasized. Communities which would enjoy the latter must make and maintain the former. In many instances bad roads have prevented the extension of rural free delivery to communities where it was greatly desired.

Women as Well as Men are Made Miserable by Kidney and Bladder Trouble.

Kidney trouble preys upon the mind, discourages and lessens ambition; beauty, vigor and cheerfulness soon disappear when the kidneys are out of order or diseased.

Kidney trouble has become so prevalent that it is not uncommon for a child to be born afflicted with weak kidneys. If this child urinates too often, if the urine scalds the flesh, or if, when the child reaches an age when it should be able to control the passage, it is yet afflicted with bed-wetting, depend upon it, the cause of the difficulty is kidney trouble, and the first step should be towards the treatment of these important organs. This unpleasant trouble is due to a diseased condition of the kidneys and bladder and not to a habit as most people suppose.

Women as well as men are made miserable with kidney and bladder trouble, and both need the same great remedy. The mild and the immediate effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It is sold by druggists, in fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles. You may have a sample bottle free, also a pamphlet telling all about Swamp-Root, these on Swamp-Root, including many of the thousands of testimonial letters received from sufferers who found Swamp-Root to be just the remedy needed. In writing Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., be sure and mention this paper. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

REALLY A MOONLIGHT SONATA

Beethoven's Beautiful Music Composed Under the Rays of the Queen of Night.

The story runs that Beethoven's Moonlight sonata—always so called, though he so rarely gave a descriptive name to any of his works—was composed on an occasion when he had been playing to some stranger folk by chance. Walking with a friend he heard an old woman playing some one playing with much feeling a bit of one of his sonatas. He paused to listen. In a moment the music ceased and the door and window opened to hear some really good concert. The voice was so appealing that the composer stepped without hesitation to the door and looked. Admitted to the wondering host, he said: "I will play for you," and played wonderfully till the lamp burned out. Then with the moonlight filling the room he began to improvise—the mysterious delicate breathings of the beginning of that wonderful sonata, then the tricky elf-like second part and the glory of the close.

Hospitals.

The only hospitals in antiquity were for slaves and soldiers. The rise of hospitals is shrouded in mystery, but beyond a doubt they are the product of Christian teaching. It is pretty certain that hospitals arose out of the early homes for travelers and the poor. The institution is clearly of eastern origin. About 270 A. D. Basilian founded the famous hospital Casarsa. St. Augustine speaks of hospitals as being quite new in his day. In 498-514 Pope Symmachus built three in Rome. In the sixth century there was a very large one in Lyons. In fact, about the time they appear all over the pale of Christendom—Chicago Examiner.

Reputations.

"The autocrat," remarked the recondite person, "made a remark the import of which escaped me until the other day. He said, 'Many a man has a reputation because of the reputation he expects to have some day.'"

"That's not a half bad remark," suggested the practical person, "but my son—just out of college, you know, and in the habit of thinking humbugged thoughts, as it were—said something this morning that appealed to me. 'Some men,' he said, 'get a reputation and keep it; some get a reputation and make it keep them.'"

MARK TWAIN

On the inky breast of the River Styx
The ferryman rests on his oar,
As he wathes the craft of old Father Time
Churn past with a swish and a roar.
And the Ancient's sailors are heaving the lead,
In an effort to ascertain
The water's depth, for a voice rings forth
Thro' the black of the night—"Mark Twain."

"That name—I heard it but yesternight,"
And the boatman nods his head;
"Tho' he said it was Clemens, I knew that he
Was the shadow of Humor's dead,
For the dank air shook and the waters toss'd
As 'mid thunder and drenching rain
I rowed him across to the other shore
As Clemens—but still Mark Twain."

At the pearly gates to the throne of God
Gave a halt ere the journey's end,
As the gatekeeper queried in mighty tones:
"Who were you on earth, my friend?"
Sam Clemens? Yet you by another name
Soothed sorrow and allayed pain,
As Clemens perchance we might let you in,
But we welcome you as—Mark Twain."

Epicures Will Try Cotton Seed Flour

An order has been sent by the management of the Ohio Valley Exposition to a milling company of Jonesboro, Ark. for samples of cotton seed flour and for examples of the culinary results of the use of this novel and recently discovered meal. It is the object of the Exposition management to secure, if possible, a complete exhibit of the cotton seed flour industry, this being along the lines of the objects of the Exposition of showing the public the latest and best products of factory, field and farm, and of presenting these products in the most attractive manner. According to reports from the South, the cotton seed flour industry promises to become a most important one. Texas was the first state to become interested in the novel substitute for wheat flour, and for examples of the culinary results of the use of it, together with various kinds of cake and pastry made with it, to the Texas Congress at Washington, where the new articles of food received the highest prize from epicures. Since then much experimenting has been done with the meal, and the conclusion reached that the best results are reached by mixing it with about fifty per cent of ordinary flour, thereby reducing the unusual richness with which the meal is imbued. Its nutritious value is far above that of the best winter wheat flour, and it is said to lend itself particularly well to cakes of all kinds. One of the rare delicacies now being made of the cotton seed meal is an improved kind of ginger snap that is said to find ready sale in the cities where this new flour is being used. It is expected that a supply of ginger snaps will be shipped to Cincinnati for distribution among experts on flour at the same time that the samples asked for are sent.

Woman Gave Us The Stars In Our Flag.

The actual facts in regard to the introduction of the stars in the blue field of our flag are obscure. But it is a coincidence, at least that Washington's coat of arms contains both stars and stripes.

While we do not positively know to whom belongs the distinction of originally designing the adopted form of the flag, little if any doubt, exists in regard to the maker of the first "official" standard of the United States. It is a well-established fact that in July, 1776, a committee of Congress, consisting of General Washington, Robert Morris and Colonel Ross, called upon Mrs. Betsey Ross, a seamstress residing in Arch Street, Philadelphia, and arranged with her to make one or more flags from a rough sketch which they had brought with them.

The stars in this drawing were six-pointed, after the English pattern. Mrs. Ross, with a woman's appreciation of what was fitting, suggested that these be changed to five-pointed stars, according to the French custom. General Washington himself made the change and drew a corrected design for the flag while seated in Mrs. Ross's back parlor. The flag thus designed was made up, and when submitted to Congress was at once unofficially adopted.—THE NEW IDEA WOMAN'S MAGAZINE for July.

mark the wonderful progress of the age. Air flights on heavy machines, telegrams without wires, terrible war inventions to kill men, and that wonder of wonders—Dr. King's New Discovery—to save life when threatened by coughs, colds, laryngitis, asthma, croup, bronchitis, hemorrhages, hay fever and whooping cough or lung trouble. For all bronchial affections it has no equal. It relieves instantly. Its surest cure. James M. Black, of Asheville, N. C., R. No. 4, writes it cured him of an obstinate cough after all other remedies failed. 50c. and $1.00. A trial bottle free. Guaranteed by Severs Drug Co.

How Far Can You See?

What is the farthest limit to which the human vision can reach? Power in his book, "The Eye and Sight," gives the ability to see the star, Alcor, situated at the tail of the Great Bear, as it is. Indeed, the Arabs call it the "Test star." It is most exceptional to be able to see Jupiter's satellites with the naked eye, though one or two cases are recorded, the third satellite being the most distinct. Servians are said to be the longest sighted race on earth. Humboldt records a case where these Indians perceived a human figure 18 miles away, being able to recognize that it was human and clad in white. This is probably the record for far sight.

YOUR BACKACHE WILL BE FLEETLY CURED

To Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Bloomdale, Ohio.—"I suffered from terrible headache, pains in my back and right side, and was tired all the time and nervous. I could not sleep, and every month I could hardly stand the pain. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound restored me to health and made me feel like a new woman. I hope this letter will induce other women to avail themselves of this valuable medicine."—Mrs. E. M. FREDERICK, Bloomdale, Ohio.

Bucke's is a symptom of female weakness or derangement. If you have backache don't neglect it. To get relief of your backache, you must reach the root of the trouble. Nothing we know of will do this so safely and surely as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Cure the cause of these distressing aches and pains and you will become well and strong again.

The great volume of unsolicited testimony constantly pouring in proves conclusively that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has restored health to thousands of women. If you have the slightest doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help you, write to Mrs. J. C. Benson, of Lynn, Mass., for advice. Your letter will be absolutely confidential.

FOR THE HOUSEWIFE.

Uncle Sam Sends Books Free on Cookery Matters.

The foods used to give variety to the diet in the home are, of course, rice, and circumstances, but the staple food of the country over are cereal grains and their products, meat, dairy products, and the more usual vegetables and fruits.

According to the results of a large number of carefully conducted studies in American homes, it appears that meat and poultry supply 10 per cent of the total food material, 20 per cent of the protein and 50 per cent of the fat; the average American dietary, dairy products, 18 per cent of the total food, 10 per cent of the protein, 34 per cent of the total fat and 4 per cent of the total carbohydrates; cereals, 21 per cent of the total food, 31 per cent of the protein, 43 per cent of the total fat, 9 per cent of the total carbohydrates; fruits, 2 per cent of the total food, 1 per cent of the protein, 1 per cent of the total fat, 1 per cent of the total carbohydrates.

These figures indicate clearly the relation which the principal agricultural products must necessarily bear to human problems. It is evident that utilization of these staple foods to the best advantage is of great importance to every housekeeper.

Vegetables and cereals form a large part of the food of the nation, and their purchase, care and preparation for the table are the themes of farmers' bulletins 226 ("Preparation of Vegetables for the Table"), 375 ("Care of Food in the Home"), 389 ("Bread and Baking") and 291 ("Economy in the Kitchen"). These publications may be had free by sending to the United States department of agriculture, Washington.

These bulletins are not "cookery books," although a large number of recipes for cooking vegetables and meats and mixing and baking bread are found between their covers.

Children Cry FOR FLETCHER'S CASTORIA

As You Like It.

The aged, worn, and gutless-looking individual sauntered up to the desk of the clerk in a southern hotel, and quavered, as he drew from his wallet a yellow bill, "Friend, will you kindly give me five silver dollars in exchange for this memento of the good old confederate days?" The clerk glanced quickly at the proffered bill, smiled to himself, tossed it into the drawer, and counted out the five dollars. When the gutless-looking individual had gone, the clerk examined the bill he had just taken in. He found that it was, or was not, a good U. S. bill. Either way was not, it makes a story. It has never been decided which is the better way.—Puck.

"I wonder why the baby cries so much," said the young mother. "That's easy," answered the bachelor uncle. "Why is it?" demanded the mother. "Because it's a baby," replied the uncle.—Christian Post.

THE DIFFERENCE IN RANK

Policeman on Foot Did the Work While Mounted Comptroller Looked On.

On the other afternoon a horse and truck became stuck in the soft earth thrown aside by the workmen repairing the street, says the Philadelphia Ledger. The truckman swore at the horse and the policeman swore at the truckman.

A mounted policeman of the traffic squad rode up and sat on his well-groomed horse—himself a well-groomed rider—while he leisurely took the situation. When the policeman on foot had exhausted his vocabulary and had also failed to coax the horse by the rein, he turned an appealing eye to the brother of the more distinguished service on the horse.

"Say Flannery," said the mounted policeman, raising an immaculate white-gloved hand to his well-trimmed mustache and gently stroking the bridle adornment, "you're handling it too mean. Lay hold of the wheel and give it a yank."

Two minutes later the horse and truck were on their way, the policeman on foot was ruefully regarding the mud on his big hands, and the brother of the equestrian service was trotting down the street among the automobiles, still stroking his carefully trimmed mustache with his immaculate white-gloved digits!

School of Brothers and Sisters.

The docting father and mother of an only child lavish money like water upon it, and would not wish to be told that they are only half educating the little that they cherish with such devoted care. Nevertheless, the only child can never be but half educated because it misses the better half of the precious early school—brother and sister playmates. The teachers in this school are the youngsters themselves and the lessons they teach one another are not written in books, but are none the less indispensable. Also, what is there learned is last forgotten.—New York Press.

Unique Roadmaking Plan.

Judge William E. Porter of Lawrence county, Pa., has a unique idea for improving the roads. His plan is a jail on wheels—that is, a place where prisoners can be locked up at night and transported from place to place employed in roadmaking during the day. He put his idea to a test, and the results were eminently satisfactory. The prisoners graded away a high hill on the West Pittsburg road near Newcastle and constructed a cement bridge over a culvert eighty feet long. The only expense to the county from this bridge that would ordinarily have cost thousands of dollars was for the material and the services of an engineer. The men employed were sentenced from ten to thirty days and were informed that the sentence would be materially lessened if they would work on the roads and not attempt to escape, and they worked.

Don't let the baby suffer from eczema, sores or any itching of the skin. Doan's Ointment gives instant relief, cures quickly. Perfectly safe for children. All druggists sell it.

CARE OF ROADWAYS.

They Should Always Be Dustless to Be Considered Ideal.

The good roads era has begun in many states, and already the steam roller, the piles of crushed rock along the roadside and the digging out of the original roadway are familiar sights in many of the more western states. The roads built are generally of approved macadam construction, which, completed, are perfect strips of white ribbon running through the green hills and hills of the rural sections.

These roads are perfectly built, and as soon as completed the farmers and other taxpayers contentedly sit back and feel contented. This is a serious error and one being made in many states.

Many fail to realize that whenever dust is raised a road is being destroyed. This is particularly the case on smooth macadam surfaces, where there is nothing to hold the dust on the road and where every cross wind blows off any loose material.

As soon as roads are built arrangements should be made to keep them in repair. Some dust preventive should be used immediately on macadam roads are completed in order to prevent dust.

Oil, tar and many special preparations are now on the market, and the countries all over the world are looking upon these additions as a legitimate part of the road maintenance. California has its oiled roads, over which motoring is a pleasure to the motorist and not a dust path to the citizen who happens to be on the road the same day or who has the misfortune to reside along a well traveled highway.

Massachusetts has proved that road treatments are a success and more economical than continuous applications of water, and in England dust preventing is always considered a part of the road problem.

Never can be when you'll mash a finger or suffer a cut, bruise, burn or scald. Be prepared. Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil instantly relieves pain—quickly cures the wound.

A Culinary Wrinkle.

Here's a way to use the little pieces of pie dough that are left after the pie is ready for the oven. It's accomplished with several pieces of round hard wood about four inches long. The crust should be rolled thin and cut into strips of such a size that they can be put around the sticks with one end lapped a little over the other. Flour the sticks, roll the strips around them and bake on this in a hot oven. When the crust has partly cooled the sticks can be slipped out. The strips are to be filled with whipped cream, jelly, marmalade or any other confection for which any member of the family manifests a preference. Served with coffee these fancy pastries are quite enough for a simple treat.

for the year 1910, and return the same with certain amendments and changes which we suggested and which are noted thereon.

We have heretofore advised the Board very strongly not to embody in the pledge for 1910 any guaranty of the percentage of tobacco to be pooled or any number of acres to be pooled before the pool becomes effective, and we are glad to know after talking with the Board that the majority of the Board agree with us in this opinion.

Our experience with litigation growing out of suits against dumpers is that a guaranty of a certain percentage of the acreage or a guaranty of a percentage of the amount of tobacco to be pooled before the pool becomes effective was a great detriment to us under the 1906 pledge and put us at a great disadvantage, because in every instance the parties plead that we did not have the percentage pooled as we claimed, and it would necessitate, if the same clause were contained in the 1910 pledge, a great deal of trouble and expense and investigation in order to prove that we had the necessary percentage pooled.

Yours very truly,

Waiting doesn't pay. If you neglect the aching back, Urinary troubles, diabetes, surely follow. Doan's Kidney Pills relieve backache, cure every kidney ill. Many people in this locality recommend Doan's Kidney Pills. Here's one case: J. F. Hicks, R. F. D. No. 5, Hartford Ky., says: "For twelve years my kidneys were disordered. I became tired easily, was extremely nervous and suffered from a dull pain in the small of my back. I was also subject to dizzy spells, during which there was a blurring of my sight. The secretions from my kidneys were too frequent in passage and at times greatly disturbed my rest. I was so much impressed with an advertisement I read, regarding Doan's Kidney Pills that I procured a supply and I am glad to say that it was not long before they helped me. The use of two boxes effected a cure. I have no hesitation in recommending this remedy to other kidney sufferers." For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. To Democrats

It is generally believed that the next House of Representatives at Washington will be Democratic if there is united and harmonious effort on the part of Democrats everywhere. The National Democratic Congressional Committee is charged with much responsibility in furnishing a campaign book and other literature, directing speakers, and doing the general work of organization. We need your active support especially in a financial way. Please send to the National Democratic Congressional Committee, Washington D. CHAPTER XVIII.
MEASURE FOR MEASURE.

SILENCE invested the Villa Ardenne, yet a warm and mellow light illumined many a window or marked short pathways on the blackness of the lawn. A solitary saddle horse rattled his bit, pawed restively and tossed his head worriedly from side to side, as if presence had touched him with foretelling.

On the other side of the wall, lurking in the dark niches, was a tall, lean, gray haired old man, who watched and listened and waited. He was watching and listening and waiting for the horse. Seven years! It was a long time. He had not hunted for the man. He was breaking no promise. Their paths had recrossed. It was destiny.

The hearing of the guests had been hurried and noisy. In truth, it resembled a disorderly retreat more than anything else. The denouement was evidently sufficient. There had no desire to witness the anticlimax, however interesting and instructive it might be. His highness the Prince of Monte Bianco, Earl of York, was striding up and down the floor, his spurs tinkling and his saber rattling harshly. Occasionally he glanced at the group on the opposite side of the room. He laughed gently. Oh, he would enjoy himself tonight. He would extract every drop of pleasure from this unexpected moment. Had he been mad, he would have given him this longed for opportunity? A month longer and this scene would have been impossible. At last he came to a stand in front of La Signorina, who was white and veery.

"So," he said, "after five years I find you, my beautiful wife! What a devil of a time you have given me across oceans and continents! A hundred times I have passed you without knowing it till too late. And here, at the very moment when I believed it was all over, you find yourself in the loving arms of your adoring husband! I do not understand!"

"He brief," she replied, the chill of snow in her voice. "He has found this man had no empty corners. 'Say what you will and be gone.'"

"I shall telegraph the attorneys in Rome to partition the estate. 'Have your heart,' he mocked her. 'The king will not add to his private purse the riches of Colonel Grosvenor and the Prince of Monte Bianco, your father and mine—old fools.' To tell the truth, I am badly in need of money, and, head of Bacchus, your appearance here is life to me, my dear Sonia. I am a rich man. But," with a sudden scowl, "what position in my household does this gentleman occupy?" indicating Hillard and smiling evilly.

"So it is all true, then?" Hillard exclaimed. "You are his wife?"

"Well," replied the prince impatiently. "I inquire again, what position does he hold?"

"This villa is mine," she answered, her tone giving birth to the volcano burning in her loins. "Her estates may be partitioned, this will be mine. I command you to leave it at once. I loathe you."

The prince laughed. She was simply a sack of gold. But this was his hour of triumph, and he proposed to make the most of it.

"It could have let the carabinieri take you to prison," he said urbanely. "A night in a damp cell would have chastened your spirit."

"Is it possible?" returned Hillard. "Your highness has but to say the word and I will undertake the pleasure of relieving you of this man's presence."

"He still," she said. "Will you go?"

"Presently. First I wish to add that your dear friend is both thick skulled and cowardly. I offered to slap his face a few nights ago, but he discreetly declined."

"I am calm," replied Hillard, gently releasing his arm from her grasp. He approached the prince, smiling, but the prince was neither smiling nor looking at his heart. "Had I known you that night one of us would not be here now."

"It is not too late," suggested the prince. "Come, are you in love with my wife?"

"Yes."

The bluntness of this assertion rather staggered the prince. "You admit it, then?" his throat swelling with rage. "There is no reason to deny it."

"She is yours."

The word died with a cough. A wild cry in his heart, caught by the throat and fanned

Nervous

"I was very nervous," writes Mrs. Mollie Mirse, of Carville, Ky., "had palpitation of the heart, and was irregular."

"On the advice of Mrs. Hattie Cain I took 2 bottles of Cardui and it did me more good than any medicine I ever took."

"I am 44 years old and the change has not left me, but I am lots better since taking Cardui."

Cardui is advertised and sold by its loving friends. The lady who advised Mrs. Mirse to take Cardui had herself been cured of serious female trouble, by Cardui, so she knew what Cardui would do.

raising the beggar's horse today. She was now too self reliant, too intelligent. She was her father over again, soldier and diplomat.

He was riding past the confines of the villa when a man darted out suddenly from the shadows and seized the bridle. "At last, my prince!"

"Giovanni?"

Instinctively the prince reached for his saber, knowing that he had need of it, but the scabbard was empty. He cursed the folly which had made him lose it. Oddly enough, his thought ran swiftly back to the little case in the Sabine hills. Bah! Full of courage, knowing that one or the other would not leave this spot alive, he struck his horse with purpose this time, to run his man down. But Giovanni did not lose his hold. Hate and the fierceness of revenge made him strong.

"No, no!" he laughed. "She is dead, my prince. And I—I was not going to seek you. I was going to let hell claim you in its own time. But you rode by me tonight. This is the end."

The prince unhooked his scabbard and swung it aloft. But Giovanni was fully prepared. He released the bridle, his arm went up and his knife spun through the air. Yet in that instant in which Giovanni's arm was poised for the cast the prince lifted his horse, with purpose and haste, gashed the animal deeply in the neck. Still on its haunches, it backed, wild with the unaccustomed pain. The lip of its head, at this spot retired and unprotected, gave way. The prince tried to urge the horse forward. The hind quarters sank, and the prince tried in vain to slip from the saddle. There came a crash, a cry, and horse and rider went pounding down the gorge.

Giovanni trembled, and the sweat on his body grew cold. For several minutes he waited, dreading, but there was no further sound. He searched mechanically for his knife, recovered it and thrust it into the scabbard. The knife of the gorge still he found them. They were both dead.

"Holy Father, thou hast waited seven years too long!" Giovanni crossed himself.

He gazed up at the ledge where the tragedy had begun. The cloud passed and revealed the shining muskets of two carabinieri, doubtless attracted by the untoward sounds. Giovanni stole they arrived at the white hotel in the Borgognassant Meriweth was glad.

At 9 in the morning Hillard heard a faint tapping on the panels of the door. "Open, Jack! Hurry!" cried Meriweth outside.

Hillard opened the door. "What's he trouble, Dan?" he asked.

Meriweth whispered, "Dead!"

"Who?" Hillard's heart contracted.

"The prince. They found him and his horse at the bottom of the gorge. The conclave says that there has been foul play—tracks in the dust, a scabbard cut in the neck of the horse and a scabbard minus its saber. Now, what the devil shall I do with the blamed sword?"

"I am dead!" Hillard sat down on the edge of the bed. Dead! Then she was free, free!

"What shall I do with the sword?" demanded Meriweth, a second did that the accident had occurred before you left the villa she just collapsed. The police were hunting for the missing saber. Of course we knew nothing about it," with a wink at Meriweth.

When the others were gone Hillard asked Kitty if she had any news.

"She said that she would write you and for you to remain here till you received the letter."

"Was that all?"

"Yes. Have you seen anything of that old scoundrel, who is the cause of all this trouble?"

"No, nor do I care to."

Kitty and Meriweth went out together.

They were gone to America, and Hillard was alone. He missed them all sorely—Meriweth with his cheery laugh, Kitty with her bright eyes and O'Mally with his harmless drolleries. And no letter!

Danly he searched the newspapers for news of Giovanni. But to all appearances Giovanni had vanished, as indeed he had, forever out of Hillard's sight and knowledge.

The letter came one week after the departure of his friends. It was postmarked Venice. And the riddle was solved.

HAVE SCHOOL FOR BRIDE

English Institution That Really Has a Great Deal to Be Said in Its Favor.

A school for brides is the latest English educational enterprise and as the brides are taught domestic economy and housewifery there ought to be rejoicing in that country of unskilled cooks and incompetent housekeepers.

The new school calls itself the College of Housecraft, and though it is founded in the hope that newly married young women and girls about to enter matrimony will patronize it, it is open to other women. At present besides prospective brides there are ordinary middle class girls who have been well educated and are trained in sports and accomplishments but are lacking in rudimentary knowledge of house making. In many cases they are planning to go to the colonies or to take some position in domestic service after they have gained a knowledge of housewifery.

The college is arranged like a regular house and run without any servants. The pupils do all the work. Six months is the full course, but shorter terms are arranged as in the case of the society women, while some students are allowed to come as day workers or can attend special classes.

The students wear a plain uniform of brown linen with mob cap and linen apron in the morning and of brown cashmere with muslin cap and apron in the afternoon. They are in little curtained cubicles, but those who wish it can have separate beds, rooms at an additional charge of $125 a week.

This man was killing him!

It was Meriweth who woke the sleepy lobby, pushed Hillard into a seat and gave the final orders which were to take them out of the Villa Ardenne forever. He was genuinely moved over the visible misery of his friend. When

DO NOT NAG GROWING BOYS.

Psychologist Declares Lads Should Work Out Own Problems.

"Let the growing boy work out his own salvation," was the appeal made by Dr. Arthur Holmes, professor of psychology at the University of Pennsylvania, when he recently addressed a large mothers' meeting.

Loving their children as they do and being earnest in the endeavor to help them, it was hard for many in Dr. Holmes' audience not to feel that he was right in the assertion that children are nagged too much and that boys especially should be allowed to develop naturally along their own lines.

"Mothers often forget," said he, "that, while their own way is to arrive at conclusions by intuition, boys are more logical and feel imperatively the need to work out things for themselves."

"Until he is nine or ten perhaps you may tell a lad not to do this thing or that, but from then on he will demand the reason why, and just here you will be shocked to discover that his ideas of right and wrong do not coincide with yours."

"The wise and unselfish mother will realize that there comes a time when she must withdraw from the growing boy and let him grow forth into the man's world where she will only misunderstand should she follow."

"We older folks live in the past and worship the truths consecrated by age, but a boy naturally lives in the future. The very fact that a law, whether physical or ethical, is old is just why he wants to test its strength."

"You find it first when the boy chafes at parental authority and scoffs at family traditions, but if you are wise you will let him alone. He is a manufacturing manhood. It is only the lad who questions and wonders and insists upon settling things for himself that amounts to anything."

"Above all things, be careful that you do not condemn him for deeds whose motives were right and pure. His is a different point of view, but if he does a thing and thinks it right then it is right, no matter whether any one else condemns or approves."

Little cushions are made for brooches, and many are the methods for the accomplishment of them. They demand, each and all of them, a thin satin covered cushion as a foundation—satin because the glint of it will help out the exterior and because, being glossy, it will take the dust less quickly than the sized silk.

Now, pin cushions are covered in various ways. Those of scrim with the cross stitching upon their tops are of original design as to the patterns. Those upon the cushion illustrated are cross stitched upon the regular weave of the creamy scrim in the mercerized cotton of a dull rose and leafy green. A Woman's Great Idea is how to make herself attractive. But, without health, it is hard for her to be lovely in face form or temper. A weak, sickly woman will be nervous and irritable. Constipation and Kidney poisons show in pimples, blotches, skin eruptions and a wretched complexion. But Electric Bitters always prove a godsend to women who want health, beauty and friends. Malacca Sticks.

The most costly walking sticks come from the Malay archipelago, and the most highly prized stick is the malacca cane. To insure straightness these sticks are reared in glass tubes. A good malacca should be a yard long, not less than an inch in diameter at the upper end, perfectly straight, smooth and of a very dark chocolate color, slightly mottled. It should be used delicately, for the lacquer which gives it its beautiful gloss is easily chipped—London Graphic.

TOOK THE GUARD'S PLACE.

Dr. Byles Shouldered a Gun and Kept Himself Safe.

One of the most famous of the old Puritan divines was Dr. Mather Byles, who was born in Boston in 1706 and who was the first pastor of the Hollis Street Congregational church, to which he ministered for more than forty years.

Dr. Byles was famous as a humorist and wit, and humorous anecdotes are related of his clever quips and retorts. He was a zealous Tory and warmly advocated the cause of the "mother country" against the patriots. In November, 1777, he was arrested as a Tory, tried, convicted and sentenced to be confined on board a guard ship and sent to England with his family within forty days. The sentence was afterward commuted by the board of war to confinement in his own house, a guard being placed over him with instructions not to permit him to leave his residence for a moment under any circumstances.

On Thanksgiving morning, observing the soldiers who were like many of the colonial soldiers, was a simple run, had disappeared and that Dr. Byles himself was pacing up and down before his own door with a musket on his shoulder, the neighbors crossed the street to inquire the cause of this singular spectacle.

"You see," said Dr. Byles, "I begged my guard to let me go out like many some elder with which myself and family might celebrate Thanksgiving day, but he would not permit me to go. I argued the point with him, but he has now gone to get the elder for me on condition that I keep guard over myself during his absence."

THE ANCIENT BOW.

It Varied in Shape With the Different Nations.

Although universally used by the ancients, the form of the bow varied with different nations. The Scythian bow was in the form of the letter C, and the bow of the Tartars, descendants of the Scythians, still keeps that shape. The Greek bow was more than four feet in length, but so stout and stiff that it required considerable strength and skill to use it. It is said that the first Greek bow was made from the horns of a species of goat, the bases being united by means of a metallic band. Afterward other material was used in their manufacture, but they still retained their original shape. These bows were too short to be of much use, and only a small portion of the troops were armed with them.

The Romans brought the bow to Britain, where it at once obtained favor, and during the middle ages was extensively used, forming an important weapon of the armies of that period. The English archers were said to be the finest in the world, and their skill defied the battles of Crécy, Poitiers and Agincourt. The bows used were of two kinds—the longbow and the arbalest, or crossbow. The arbalest was made of steel or horn and was of great strength and stiffness. It was necessary to use some mechanical appliance to bend it and adjust the string. The arbalesters carried quivers of fifty arrows, and in the van of the battle—St. James Gazette.

Why She Couldn't Accept. Telephone operators who plug wrong numbers or get the wires crossed sometimes are responsible for very embarrassing situations, as was exemplified by a lady in this city the other morning. The broker called up his home number and said to the person on the other end of the wire:

"Hello, dear. Is that you?" "Yes," replied a sweet toned voice. "Well, I've been thinking about you all morning. I want you to come over and meet me for lunch, and I'll go to a show this afternoon."

"Well, that would be very nice," replied the person on the other end, "and should love to do so, but my husband is home, and I'm afraid he won't. Don't you think you've got the wrong number?"—Philadelphia Record.

Weight of Atmosphere.

Atmosphere is the name applied to the gaseous envelope that surrounds the globe. It consists of a mechanical union of nitrogen and oxygen in a ratio of four to one, together with relatively small amount of carbonic acid gas and a little water vapor. Its thickness is about fifty miles, although probably extends in an attenuated state as far as 500 miles. This is inferred from the observation of luminous meteors. It exerts a pressure of fifteen pounds to the square inch on the earth's surface and weighs over seven and a half trillions of pounds. The air is turned and wafted by the wind, and it consumes three times as much oxygen daily as man consumes as much oxygen as a person.

A BYRON STATE.

Made For Westminster Abbey, but Dean Lincoln Refused It.

Many years ago some admirers of Lord Byron raised a subscription for a monument to the poet to be placed in Westminster abbey. Chantrey was requested to execute it, but on account of the smallness of the sum subscribed he declined, and Thorwaldsen was then applied to and cheerfully undertook it.

In about 1823 the finished statue arrived at the customs house in London, but to the astonishment of the subscribers the dean of Westminster, Dr. Ireland, declined to give permission to have it set up in the abbey, and owing to this difficulty, which proved insurmountable, for Dr. Ireland's successor was of the same opinion, it remained for upward of twelve years in the customs house, when (1846) it was removed to the library of Trinity college, Cambridge.

The poet is represented in the statue of the size of life, seated on a rug, with his left foot resting on the fragment of a column. In his right hand he holds a scroll up to his mouth, in his left a book, inscribed "Child Harold." He is dressed in a frock coat and cloak. Beside him on the left is a skull, above which is the Athenian owl. The likeness is, of course, posthumous. Thorwaldsen was born Nov. 19, 1770, and died on March 24, 1844.—Exchange.

A LAD OF MYSTERY.

"That Awful Boy Jones," Who Tormented Queen Victoria.

For a little while about the middle of the nineteenth century "that awful boy Jones" was the torment of Queen Victoria's life, and his short career in public contains a mystery which would try the mettle of Sherlock Holmes.

He was a barber's apprentice who in one unexplained way discovered a passage into Buckingham palace, which he alone was acquainted with. When he was first found trespassing he was gently admonished and sent home. Soon after he was encountered again on the same spot. He would not leave he obtained access. Again he was sent home, and again he reappeared.

Once he calmly admitted that he had been lodging in the palace for a fortnight. He had laid snug during the day, sleeping in the royal apartments, and at night had wandered from room to room, helping himself to the food left over from royal repasts. He had seen the queen repeatedly and indeed had never been far from her.

The matter was considered so serious that the boy was summoned before a special meeting of the privy council. He refused to give any account of his secret. Soon after he disappeared, and it is supposed that he was removed under state protection.—London Globe.

Grant in the Saddle.

Grant was at his best in the saddle. The oldest record that he made for himself at the academy, the one time that he excelled all his fellows, was at the final mounted exercises of his graduating class, when, riding a famous horse named York, he was called upon to clear the leaping bar that the gruff old riding master had placed higher than a man's head. He dismounted from his place on the runs, a smooth faced, slender young fellow on a powerful chestnut sorrel, and galloped down the opposite side of the bar, turned and went directly to the bar, the great horse increasing his pace as he neared it, and then, as if he and his rider were one, rising and clearing it with a magnificence that the leap is still recorded at the academy as "Grant's own York."—St. Nicholas.

A Singular Marriage Custom.

The Kurds have a very curious and somewhat dangerous marriage custom, which one would think would be more sponsored in the breast than in the service. The husband, surrounded by a bodyguard of twenty or thirty young men, carries his wife home on his back in a scarlet cloth and is desperately assaulted the whole way by a number of girls. Stricks and stones are hurled at the bridegroom, who in the coming home with his bride can hardly be considered a very happy man, for the irate amazons often afflict on him marks which he carries to the grave. It may be that among the lady pursuers are some of the bridegroom's former "flames," who turn the mock attack into downright earnest to avenge slighted love.

DIDN'T GET IT RIGHT.

He Thought He Was a Student of Human Nature, but He Wasn't.

"The first trip in," said the car conductor about 11:30 o'clock at night, "we'll begin to pick up the leas."

They commenced leaving their lady-loves about 11 o'clock. I've seen as many of them get on the car that I've got so I can tell who has said a loving goodby and who has had a scrap with her. It's in the way they pay their fare."

The car stopped, and a young man stepped aboard.

"There's one," continued the conductor. "I'll get his fare and then come back and tell you how I think he got along with his ladylove."

The fare was collected, and the conductor returned to the man with whom he had been talking.

"They had a fight," he said. "I'd almost bet she told him to get and never return. Oh, I'm a student of human nature, you bet you."

He sat down and another fellow boarded the car. He had, John," the passenger said. "Low are the wife and babies."

"All well but the youngest girl," was the reply. "I'm going down to the drug store now to get her some cough medicine."

The conductor went to the other end of the car and stayed there as much as he could.—Denver Post.

THE BEST THEY HAD.

Put it All on Exhibition to Make a Good Impression.

The Norwegians are always trying to put the best foot forward, and they do it in reference to marriage as well as in reference to other matters.

It is said that a young man once went out to seek a wife and came to a farmhouse where there was more than one fine girl. The only thing which the farmer could boast was a new sleeve to his coat. This must be the most of. "Pray take a seat," he said hospitably. "But this room is shocking dirty," and, so saying, he went about wiping tables and benches with his new sleeve, while he kept the old one behind him.

His wife possessed one new shoe and one only, but she made the most of it by pushing the furniture in place with it and keeping the other hidden beneath her skirts. "It is very dirty," she said. "Everything is out of place."

When they called to the daughter to come and put things right, she said the only new thing she possessed was a cap. So she kept putting her head in at the door and nodding and nodding.

"For my part," she said, "I can't be everywhere at once."

Thus they all tried to make the young man believe that the household was well to do.—Detroit Free Press.

Children Cry FOR FLETCHER'S CASTORIA

It's So Good.

His name isn't really Guzzler, but it will answer the purpose, and it is descriptive. Guzzler has a habit of looking upon the wine when it is red, frequently to the extent that he can see two bottles where only one exists.

Now, Guzzler is married, and recently two more babies have been added. Several days after the event two of his friends met, and the following conversation ensued:

"Hello, old man! Hear about the doilies out of the window?"

"No. Another birthday party?"

"Yes, in a way. Guzzler's wife has presented him with twins."

"How do you know?"

"How do I know? Well, I ought to know. Guzzler told me himself."

"Well, I wouldn't place too much dependence on it. You know Guzzler generally sees double."—New York Times.

THE FATA MORGANA.

Conditions That Must Observe to Allow of Its Production.

The fata morgana is a singular aerial phenomenon akin to the mirage. It is seen most frequently and in greatest perfection at the strait of Messina, between Sicily and Italy. So many conditions must coincide, however, that even there it is of comparatively rare occurrence. To allow of its production the sun must be at an angle of forty degrees with the water, both sky and sea must be calm and the tidal current sufficiently strong to cause the water in the center to rise higher than on the edges of the strait. What these conditions are fully met the observer on the heights of Calabria, looking toward Messina, will behold a series of rapidly changing pictures, sometimes of most exquisite beauty.

Castles, colonnades, successions of beautiful arches, palaces, cities, with houses and streets and church domes, mountains, forests, groves, will appear and vanish, to be succeeded perhaps by fleets of ships, sometimes placidly sailing over the deep, sometimes inverted, while a halo like a rainbow surrounds every image. It is supposed that the images are due to the irregular refractive powers of the different layers of air above the sea, which magnify, repeat and distort the objects on the Sicilian shore beyond, but to the Italians these singular appearances are the castles of the Princess Morgana, and the view of them is supposed to bring good fortune to the beholder.

The Florin.

The florin, one of the most famous of modern coins, originated in Florence.

Some say that it gave the name to the city, while others assert that it was first so called because it had on it a flower de luce, from the Italian flo, or flower, for the same reason that an English silver piece is called a crown or certain gold pieces in France are called louis.

France indifferently a napoleon or a louis or the ten dollar gold piece in America an eagle. Two countries, Austria and Holland, have retained the florin as a unit of monetary value, taking it at a time when it was very universal in Europe, its usage having been rendered general by the financial supremacy of the little state of northern Italy and the imperfect coinage system of the other countries of the continent.
